

Philadelphia International Airport Statement re: Sick Passengers on Inbound Flights:

This afternoon, 12 passengers arriving at Philadelphia International Airport on international flights on American Airlines #755 from Paris and on American Airlines #1317 from Munich – were experiencing flu-like symptoms. As a precaution, all passengers on the two flights – totaling about 250 plus crew – were held for a medical review and the CDC was notified. CDC, the Philadelphia Health Department and the Philadelphia Fire Department personnel performed medical evaluations and assessments. The passengers -- except for the 12 affected -- are in the process of being released. Airport operations were not impacted during this time.
