

Going to Your Gate at PHL

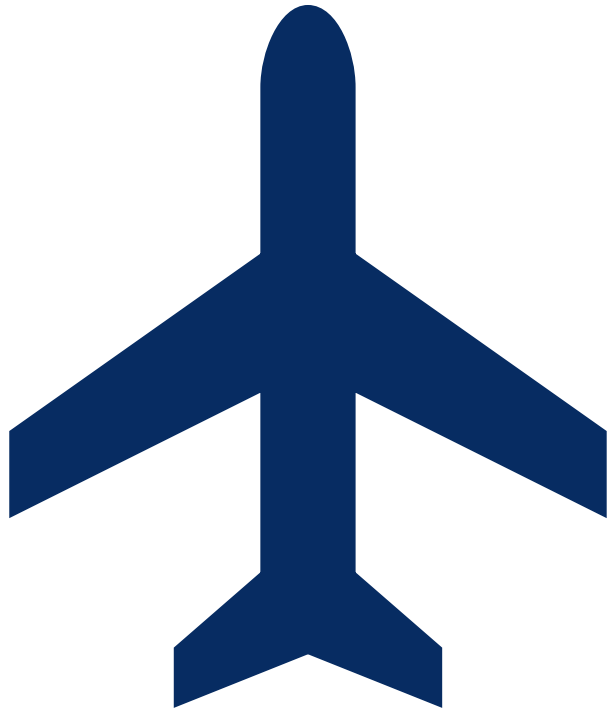

Version 1

PHL Access for All program

This story is part of the Access for All program for people with disabilities at the Philadelphia International Airport (PHL). This program can be used to assist you when you are flying to or from PHL.

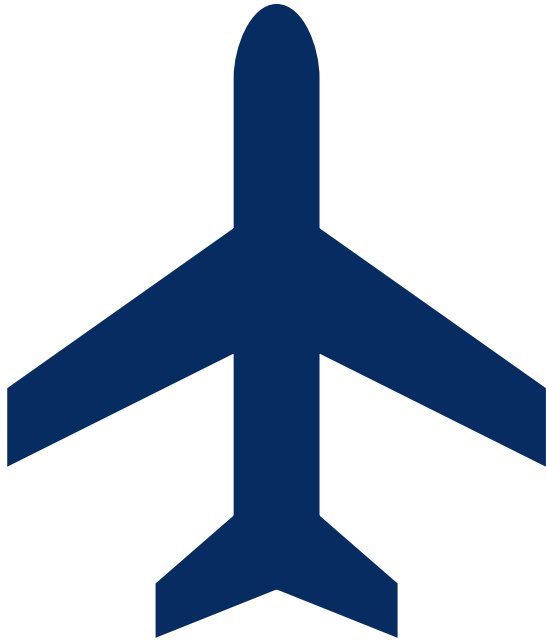

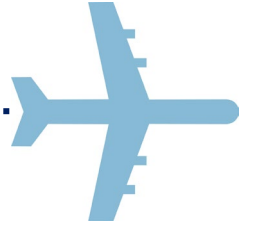

You will walk in long halls to get to your gate.

Nonstop PHL / MOVING FORWARD TOGETHER

There is a hall that connects all the terminals.

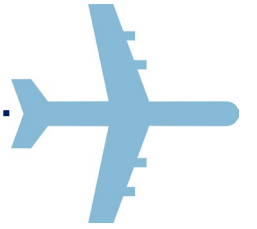

The gates are in the Terminals.

The gates are numbered.

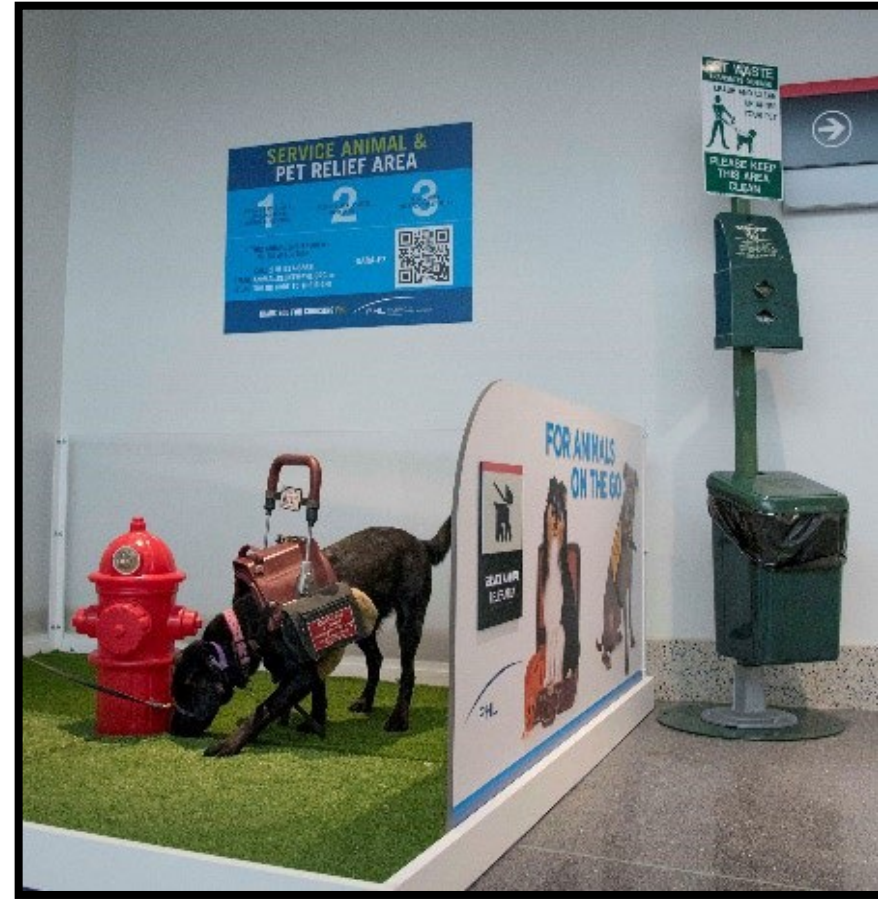

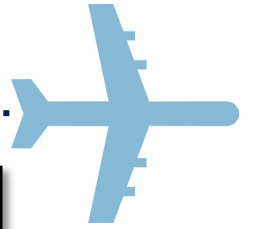

The gate area is a large open room. It can become full of people on busy days.

Let the gate attendant know if you need help because of any of the following:

- You need early boarding because of a disability.
- You cannot hear the overhead announcements and need someone to tell you of any changes or announcements.
- You need any other accommodation for your disability while you are waiting for your plane.

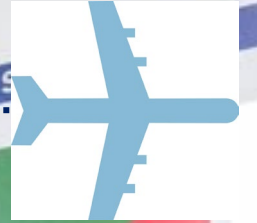

Talk to the attendant if you have a service animal or medical equipment.

Stay near your gate to get information or instructions.

Want more info?

You can learn more about accessibility at
PHL by visiting
<https://www.phl.org/about/accessibility>

— Saron McKee

PHL Director of Access and Accessible Programs

Thank you!

Nonstop PHL MOVING FORWARD TOGETHER