Things to Know If You Are Flying Out of PHL Airport

If you are flying out of Philadelphia International Airport (PHL) this summer travel season, here are a few things to keep in mind.

- Dedicated TSA Pre-Check lanes are available at Checkpoint A-East (Gates A 1-13), C and D-E. Checkpoint C is TSA Pre-Check customers only.
- If you are flying American Airlines, check your terminal as well as departure gate before you arrive at the Airport so you know where to check in and go through TSA screening. American flights depart from Terminals A-West, A-East, B, C and F.
- Once you are through security, all terminals and gates are accessible. It's about a 15-minute walk between F and C Terminal. American operates free shuttles between Terminals C and F and Terminals A and F.
- Know the TSA 3-1-1 rule and know what you can and cannot pack in your carry-on. Check tsa.gov for more details.
- Know your airline's baggage policy before coming to the airport by checking their website or contacting them directly. If you have a question about Airport security or what you can take in your carry-on or checked bags, contact @AskTSA on Twitter and Facebook, or call 866.289.9673.
- Use the Navigate PHL interactive map to guide your way through the airport at maps.phl.org.
- If you're parking at the Airport, check space availability in each garage at phl.org.
- The free Cell Phone Lot is conveniently located 1 minute from all bag claim areas. Don't wait on the roadways for your party to be picked up. Don't leave the lot until your passenger is at curb side with luggage ready to be picked up.
- If you see something, say something. Tell a police officer or call 3111 from a white courtesy phone. Safety is everyone's business.
